

DOE Federal Employee Occupational Safety and Health (FEOSH) Program

*Dennis Lubow, EH-51
DOE FEOSH Program*

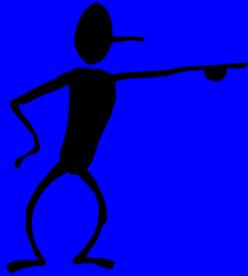

What is FEOSH?

DOE managers at all levels of the organization are responsible for protecting the health of DOE employees, promoting safety at DOE facilities, and/or ensuring operations do not harm employees.

The DOE FEOSH program provides the necessary information, guidance, and corporate assistance to ensure that all employees work under safe and healthful conditions, free of hazards.

The FEOSH Program Office (EH-51) guides and supports the field components responsible for individual FEOSH program implementation. The FEOSH “field” consists of Cognizant Secretarial Offices, Operations Offices, FE field sites, and Power Administrations.

FEOSH Program Office Philosophy

- γ Ensure that the safety and health of DOE Federal employees is #1 priority.
- γ Maintain strong partnership with the field, labor organizations, and other Federal agencies.
- γ Focus on value-added activities.
- γ Proactively recognize and respond to existing, new, and emerging safety and health concerns.
- γ Build on the experience of others.
- γ Conserve field resources.
